AMONG OURSELVES

Several weeks ago the following was mentioned in Bill Gold's, "District Line," in the Washington Post: "For Hortense Auerbach of Gallaudet College, the truly authentic sign of spring is the arrival of the first large fly in her classroom, and she reported that one had taken up residence there on February 16." With the swamp like conditions on campus, flies will probably outnumber flowers as signs of spring this year....Myrta Johnson, who recently underwent heart surgery at Georgetown University Hospital, is reportedly doing quite well and has been out of intensive care for a week now. No visitors yet, but cards and notes are A-OK....We have a new personnel assistant in the Office of Non-Faculty Personnel, Judy Cox, who began work on Monday.

Monday, March 20: Julianna Corrado, Tim Scanlon, Ed Waterstreet, and David Berman will visit Linda Bove on Channel 26's "Sesame Street." They will help her entertain her children in her "home."

Tuesday, April 18: Linda Bove makes her third "Sesame Street" appearance since becoming a permanent resident.

Check local listings for exact time of the broadcasts.
